Seven Astronauts Graduates of Purdue

Fountain on the Mall, with Mechanical Engineering Building in the background.

THE Indiana link in a nationwide chain of 68 land-grant colleges and universities, Purdue ranks among the top universities in full-time enrollment. Total enrollment during 1966-67 was 30,269, with more than 8,650 of these students enrolled at University regional campuses in Hammond, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and Michigan City.

... Today, one out of every 20 engineers and one out of every 20 agriculture graduates in the United States holds a degree from Purdue.

... Purdue's standing in the field of engineering and science is attested by seven astronauts who are Purdue graduates, as well as the late "Gus" Grissom and Roger Chaffee.

... Purdue confers degrees in ten schools—Engineering, Agriculture, Industrial Management, Pharmacy, Veterinary Science and Medicine, Home Economics, Humanities, Social Science and Education, Science, Technology, and the Graduate School.

... More than 94,100 degrees have been granted by Purdue University since its founding in 1869.

... Purdue's 2,000 full-time faculty members teach and conduct research in 115 principal buildings on more than 14,000 acres controlled by the University. Physical plant value is estimated at more than $200 million.

... Purdue is one of seven charter members of the Big Ten athletic conference, established in 1896.

... Construction was started in July, 1965, on a 14,500 seat basketball arena. It will be completed, at a cost of $5.6 million, for the 1967-68 season.

... The Edward C. Elliott Hall of Music, cultural center of the University, is considered not only one of the largest theaters in the world, providing seats for 6,090 spectators, but also one of the most beautiful.

Low Cost Electricity from Natural GAS!

Here, in sight of the stadium, is one of the nation's foremost examples of Gas Total Energy — an amazing and practical new system of heating, lighting and cooling a large building or building complex by Natural Gas.

Gas engines, located on the 24th floor of each tower, drive generators to produce the electricity used throughout the tower. Heat from the operation of these engines is recovered and used for heating, cooling and water heating.

The Ohio State University has taken a bold new approach in its twin tower dorms and their unique yet practical use of Natural Gas. Gas Total Energy has an exciting future in many commercial and industrial applications. And, as in the past, Natural Gas continues to serve you better... for less... throughout your own modern home.

When Is A Wristwatch Like A Football Team?

An accurate wristwatch requires coordination too. The minute hand must know what the second hand is doing.

Roy's Jewelers practices "timepiece teamwork." They "coach" their wristwatches with a specially designed electronic timer to assure accurate and precise performance. A wristwatch from Roy's is precision-gearred, just like a winning football team . . . Except Roy's isn't interested in playing games.

Why not investigate the exciting array of precision wristwatches available at Roy's. Ask about Longines, the official watch for Ohio State University home football games.

Team up with time at Roy's . . . be part of a winning combination.

Block "O" Expansion Plan Now Includes 1,350 Students

BLOCK "O" has taken on new color, shape and size this fall as a result of a major expansion campaign during the past year.

On football Saturdays previous to this season, only a portion of the fans in Ohio Stadium have been able to watch the 763 members of Block "O". Seated in Section 13-A they flashed stunts as weather permitted since rain made performing an impossibility.

This year, however, the Block "O" flackcard section consists of 1350 students who are seated in Sections 1 and 2-A. They will don their full length plastic rain capes when necessary and flash all new plastic cards, rain or shine. Now 80 per cent of the audience can see the performance.

This expansion originally was created for two major purposes.

Of all the Big Ten schools with flash card sections, the Ohio State University had the smallest, even though it boasted one of the largest student enrollments. Then, too, previous to this fall no freshmen were permitted in Block "O". It was felt that a greater effort should be made to involve freshmen in university activities, so the size of the Block was expanded.

The permanent seating design, which is the one seen when no stunt is being performed, has been changed from the standard Block "O" to a map of the state of Ohio. The name of the state is written in such a manner that the greeting "HI" and symbols for Block "O" both are visible.

Every stunt being performed this year is either an old favorite revised for the new Block or a totally new theme created this past year.

For helping to create a new Block "O" the members salute Richard Larkins, Director of Athletics; George Staten, director of ticket sales; Diana Mason, president of Block "O"; Linda Ruck, vice president; Mike Stern, executive secretary; Phyllis Mara, treasurer; Cathie Reith, membership; Becky Warfel, general chairman; Jim Baer, expansion chairman; Art Weinle, equipment chairman; Jan Pitsen, co-stunt design; Bill Somers, co-stunt design; Mary Endicott, stunt cards; Jet Harrison, Secretary and Carolyn Corn, publicity.

Today's Stunt Schedule: Rose (Bowl) Bush, Railroad the Boilermakers, Big Ten Foes, Astronomy Lesson, Purdue Takes Off.

A Split Second Look At Chemical Reaction

Research conducted on linear machine purchased under contract with A.E.C.

Prof. Leon M. Dorfman of the department of chemistry checks out Ohio State University's electron linear accelerator for a new chemical technique called "pulse radiolysis." Encased in heavy concrete shielding below ground near Evans Chemistry Laboratory, the machine is one of six at U.S. universities or research laboratories used for this purpose.

OHIO STATE University radiation chemists are operating an electron accelerator that gives them a split-second look at chemical reactions.

The linear accelerator, which delivers a kick of up to six million volts of high-current energy for periods as brief as 10 billionths of a second, is housed in an underground concrete laboratory near Evans Chemistry Laboratory.

Prof. Leon M. Dorfman is directing the work of graduate students and post-doctoral fellows who are conducting research with the machine which was purchased under a $149,200 contract with the Atomic Energy Commission.

Encased in thick concrete walls and a layer of earth over the top, the laboratory room housing the accelerator is equipped with a number of safety devices to protect the operators.

A gate with an interlock that automatically closes as the machine is turned on blocks the passage-way leading from the control panel in the adjoining room. A flashing light and horn go on before the machine is on. And the machine can be turned off by a button on either side of the room.

Ohio State is one of six places in this country where the new technique, called "pulse radiolysis," is employed.

The usual methods of studying chemical reactions don't give enough understanding of many of the complex steps taking place, Prof. Dorfman explained.

"With this machine we get a quick picture of a single step of a reaction while it is taking place by isolating it from the numerous other processes that go on during the reaction."

The technique enables the identification of short-lived chemical products, called "transient species," and it can be applied to both physical and organic chemistry and in biophysics, he said.

In an experiment, the sample is irradiated by the accelerator's electron beam. A light shining through the sample is shown on a spectrometer, which shows the species of the reaction present at that point.

Prof. Dorfman considers pulse radiolysis one of the best means to train graduate students about the nature and rates of chemical reactions because the students are able to see the reaction as it takes place — not the end products.

One of the pioneers of the technique while at Argonne National Laboratory before coming to Ohio State in 1964, Prof. Dorfman believes that at the graduate level it is difficult to separate research and teaching.

"I think it is a mistake to make this distinction. You can't do research without teaching at the same time, and I don't know where one leaves off and the other begins."

When it's football time... it's time to improve your lawn

Take advantage of the best time of the whole year to rejuvenate a lawn. The experts always fertilize in the fall, when natural growing conditions are best for the development of good, tight turf. You can literally help grass multiply itself with an October or November feeding. The benefits will be apparent this fall—and in next year's lawn. Truly a once-a-year opportunity!

RHYTHM AND MOVEMENT

Situation and Music

Rhythm is a part of many events. It is not unusual for someone to say I've Got Rhythm.

Casino Royale implies rhythm in the games of chance, but in this instance it is no gamble to find rhythm and movement in a band drill.

Spotlights are on a championship twirler showing rhythm and movement to Georgy Girl.

On stage, there is much rhythm and movement, especially to the rock'n roll beat.

Up, Up, and Away go balloons floating in the air with their special fascination and rhythmic movement,

The Bard of Des Moines

by HAROLD KEITH

Sports Information Director, University of Oklahoma

Trumpets blew the fanfare
Whistle blew for play
Halfback blew the kickoff
We always start that way.

BERT McGRANE probably scribbled that with a ball point on the back of an old envelope wherever he was when the idea seized him, then batted it out on his 12-year-old Underwood in the basement of his two-story farm home located eight miles from downtown Des Moines, Iowa.

Who's Bert McGrane? He's the former football writer for the Des Moines Register (for 41 years) who is now retired from newspapering but stays enthusiastically active as permanent secretary and poet laureate of the Football Writers of America, an organization of 1,200 sports writers from all over the nation.

"The Dam Sec," as McGrane calls himself, edits "The Fifth Down," a mimeographed publication composed of humorous odds and ends mailed during the college football season to each member of the FWA clan.

Best part by far of "The Fifth Down" are McGrane's amusing little ballads dealing with all aspects of the college game. Like this one:

They all raced after the fumble,
He captured it after a dive
The rest of the pack piled onto his back
He's cold and inert, but alive.

McGrane's verse makes frequent use of the symbol "&." He says brevity isn't the reason. "I use it because it seems to tie in with my notion that my efforts are just a motley assortment of trifles anyway," the Bard of Des Moines modestly explains. Like this tribute to the lowly lineman:

Halfbacks get big headlines
Coaches get fat check
Linemen pick up scabs & scars
North and south of neck.

Like everybody, he enjoys poking fun at referees and umpires:

Here's tip to officials
From ocean to ocean
Whenever in doubt
Just call backfield in motion.

Coaches and the uncertainty of their continued employment are the subject of many of McGrane's stanzas. Like these two:

Luckless coach who Failed to win
Lost his head just South of chin.

When howling alumni
Confer with the President
Coach who's a loser is Soon a non-resident.

Football games are won in winter by assistant coaches and alumni who work like stevedores recruiting top-notch high school players, as this verse recognizes:

He was famed as a builder of men
He triumphed again and again
But without his recruiter
This same master tutor
Might never have got where he's been.

College athletic business managers love this ballad. Many of them have framed it and posted it on their walls:

The best of the linemen get clobbered
& the life of a back ain't so hot
But what of the guy to whom they apply
For tickets he simply ain't got?

Lady spectators, and what husbands hold is the chief reason for their attendance at games, aren't neglected by the Hoosier Bobby Burns:

Sweetie-pie with dreamy eye
Disregards the score
Makes a point to case the joint
For what the ladies wore.

The shifting pattern of college football romance also rates a rhyme:

He was a helluva halfback
& she was the gorgeous sort
She gave him the brush &
Developed a crush for
A guy who hated the sport.

Here McGrane sketches the patient substitute and his fate:

He sat on the bench three seasons
He worried, he squirmed & he sweat
If he hadn't received his diploma
He might have been sitting there yet.

After living through four wars,
McGrane knew their effect on college football:

The coach had a dream of a miracle team
He hardly could wait until autumn
He had talent galore
But along came a war
The draft board came over & got 'em.

Here's his caricature of the heart-breaking penalty:

Joe Zilch ran 80 from scrimmage
As rugged a run as you'll see
But the ref caught somebody holding & whistled it back to the three.

McGrane even dashed off a pome about nicknames:

Bruins, Gators, Coyotes, Cats
Bulldogs, Lions, Steers get votes
But no football team, alas
Ever chose the nickname Goats.

And this whimsy on the importance of concentration:

He took the ball, he hit the hole
He galloped toward the distant goal
Above him, watching, was his doll.
He sneaked a look & dropped the ball.

He can even make fun of his own profession as this final iambic shows:

Country's fulla experts
Putting teams on top
Teams are fulla dynamite
Experts fulla hop.

Washington Irving once wrote, "Honest good humor is the oil and wine of merry meeting, and there is no jovial companionship equal to that where the jokes are rather small, and the laughter abundant." McGrane's verse gets awfully close to that.

Because Gant believes:

a shirt is ...

a weapon ...

not a sheath ...

Sabre Striped Oxford

Let's not parry—a shirt is more than a sheath to wear a tie with. It's a weapon to stimulate you. This is why Gant puts verve, spirit and color into this Sabre Striped Oxford button-down. Tailored with singular precision...patently Gant. Trim Hugger body. In blue, pumpkin or chamois—all with color-framed stripes. About $8 at discerning stores. '68 Chevrolets

Dramatic!
Distinctive!
Daringly new!

Expect a lot of never-befores and nice-to-haves from Chevrolet for 1968. You can count on nothing being newer. Formal and fastback roof lines. Elegant new interiors with exciting colors, fabrics, and easy-to-reach instruments. Concealed headlights, Hide-A-Way windshield wipers, and refreshing Astro Ventilation, available on many models.

NEW SILENT RIDE.

More effective body and engine mounts, quieter exhaust systems, and further improved shock absorbers. The result? Every new Chevrolet rides incredibly smooth and silent.

NEW MODELS, TOO.

Like the elegant Impala Custom Coupe and rugged new Chevelle Nomad Station Wagons. For the serious sports fan, there's the completely re-styled Corvette Sting Ray, and the Chevelle SS 396 with long-hood short-deck styling and a wider wheel stance to make it cling to the road better. Camaro, "The Hugger," features Astro Ventilation, and special hood on all SS models. What's more, there's a larger 307-cubic-inch V8 standard on Chevrolet, Chevelle and Chevy II models for '68. On most automatic transmission models, there's even a built-in heater that warms air en route to the carburetor and increases engine efficiency during cold weather. The new GM exhaust emission control is standard.

PROVED SAFETY FEATURES.

The famous proved GM-developed energy absorbing steering column and many other popular safety items are back again. Plus new features like energy absorbing front seat backs, safety armrests that shield door handles, side marker lights, and seat belts for all passenger positions. Be smart. Be sure.
